

After being disgusted by the total domination of right wing radio in my area, I decided to subscribe to a more useful (and less obnoxious) radio provider. It gives me what I want, and more. I love listening to the traffic channels (it gives me perverse pleasure knowing that I am not in a traffic tie-up), plus to all the other channels XM has to offer. I make a free market decision, and now the big market radio lobbyists want to take it away. Please leave satellite radio as is. To not do so shows me that the free market is just a convenient theory to those who are the back pockets of big media corporations.
